Each country is run by its own group of leaders who are responsible for the day-to-day operations.

Love Without Reason has received invitations to expand services into new countries. Negotiations and talks are underway with Rwanda, Ethiopia and other nations in Africa as we work to fulfill the mandate for a cleft-free world. As of today, Love Without Reason is operating in the United States of America, India, Kenya, Uganda and Zimbabwe. The organization has provided over 800 cost-free craniofacial surgeries. EDUCATE. EMPOWER. EXPAND.

The first time I walked through one of Mumbai's red-light areas was in July 2012. All five senses were assaulted with a walk down the street. The memories of what I experienced there could not be erased. Images of children drugged and asleep under their mother's bed, just so they would be safe from abuse from the 'customers.' The bitter, angry words and eyes of people there. Raw sewage and waste in the slums.

Fast forward a decade and I can understand why the research shows a link between the education of girls and its effect on her individual health, family well-being and a nation's economy. The potential of the Project Butterfly center to impact the lives of the children and ladies who have been rescued from sex trafficking will be so much greater.

The model implemented in Project Butterfly with self-sustaining business through the production of reusable sanitary napkins, is easily replicated in other parts of India and Africa to bring hope and change to survivors of sex trafficking. The economic impact and health transformations will drastically change.

The mental, emotional, and physical health of the children and adults operated on by the Love Without Reason team also has great potential. While in Kenya discharging the operated patients from the hospital, I met three young men in the male ward. The first one to speak to me was Francis. He told me about the cleft lip he lived with for thirty years. He found love and was married happily. After having two children, his wife passed away. Francis did not expect to love again, but he did. However, the father of the young woman refused to give her hand in marriage because of Francis' cleft lip. With tears in his eyes, he looked at me saying, "I did not know this could be fixed. But now, I can get married." His words shook me. A simple cleft repair had the impact to transform the life of a family.

When you give in support of individuals like Francis, your gift is like the soil that a seed is planted into. The seed has the potential to grow and produce more fruit, depending on the soil that nourishes it.

Will you join me in being the good fertile ground that can bring a harvest like no other? The mandate is clear. We are working 'Until there are no more Sold and Until the World is Cleft Free.' Thank you for your partnership with Love Without Reason.

What can $25 a month do?
You can nourish hope with the specialized feeding bottles for our cleft lip and cleft palate babies.

Did you know if ten individuals or corporates give $100 a month, that is the equivalent of one surgery every month? Talk to your networks, friends, or small group to multiply the effect of your monthly gift and transform a smile every month.

On average a one-week medical camp costs $70,000. Would your company want to impact an entire nation with a matching grant? Love Without Reason is not just reaching one individual with surgery, but entire communities will be transformed with love and hope with your support.
